Mesers. W. H. Schieffelin and Co.,

Gentlemen.—For some years 1 had, given up the use of Cod-Laver Oil allog-ther, but since my attention was called by Dr. Sayre to year Peter Moller's Cod-liver Oil, I have prescribed it almost daily, and have every reason to be perfectly autisfied with a remody in the whole Pharmacopesis of greater therapeutical value than Cod-Laver Oil, and it is greatly to be regretted that its utility is so often impaired, and even destroyed, by its nameous taste and rancidity. A sample of the oil, prepared in Norway by MOLLER, has recently been brought under our notice. It is one of the purest we have ever met with, and is remarkal to for its limpidity as well as its freedom from rancidity and disagreeable smell and fivour."

It will be seen that most of the testimonials describe cases of cures bordering on the marvollous, altogether beyond the common. Lists of ordinary cures of quines, violent inflammation of the throat, cuts, wounds, spraint, and bruises, would fill a paper: but as this oil leseks to occupy a place never yet occupied, those are not required. ifferent opinion.

EYMAN V. AMOS.

In this action Mr. Simpson moved for a rule nisi for a new trial. The Court refused the rule. The grounds of the deriston are of considerable importance, and will be reported in a day or two.

Mr. Buchanan, instructed by Mr. Greer, moved for a rule nisi for a new trial in this action, on the ground that the wridet was against the weight of evidence. The action was tried be fore Mr. Justice Faucett and a jury on the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th August, at the last Sittings for Causes. A verdict was returned for the defendant. The evidence was fully reported in our columns at the time of the trial.

I'rth, 18th, 19th, and 29th August, at the last Sittings for Causes. A verdict was returned for the defendant. The evidence was fully reported in our celumns at the time of the trial.

The Criffs Justice said that their Honors were not alled upon to determine whether Mr. Grisham's conduct in bringing about the marriage of the plaintiff, or in disposing of his property for a very good price, was right or wrong. Nor had they anything to do with any influence exercised by the defendant over the plaintiff or any inducements hell out to the plaintiff to to beam the defendant's consent to the marriage. The only question to be considered was whether the verdict of the jury was to stand. The declaration changed certain false and fraudulent representations, which indeed hardly amounted to more than exaggencial praise by a vendor of the property he was about to see! In support of this declaration the plaintiff had to make out that the statements were false, and that they were fraudulently made. Upon these two issues the evidence was that the Court would not set aside the verdict unless the evidence was that the Court would not set aside the verdict was against evidence was, that the Court would not set aside the verdict unless the evidence was that the Court would not set aside the verdict unless the evidence of the property preponderated, and unless the Court could so upon clear and definite grounds that the jury wen, wrong, Ard if this were the rule in ordinary cases, a fortiori did hold when fraud was charged. When a man scharacter well as his property was at stake, he had a right to the decision of a jury on the facts, and that decision would not be interfered with by the Court, except upon very strong grounds. In this case there was no ground for disturbing the verdict, and the rule must be refused.

Mr. Justice Hardenay agreed. The evidence given on the minimish of the defendant fully justified the verdict. The only question for trul in this action. Suppose the rent instead of failing had gone up, would the plainti

Certificates of conformity were directed by his Hosor 6 be issued as follows:—On the application of Mr. Pigott, 6 Loseph Morgen, on the payment of balance of Courharges and expenses; on the application of Mr. Newell of Pierce Field: on the application of Mr. N. M. Forstet of James Starr, the younger.
Mr. Hellyer applied for the issue of a certificate 4 Thomas Henry Fry, but it appeared that insolvent has inside to comply with an order of the Court made on the ord instant, calling upon him to furnish an explanation with regard to cartain property; and, at the request of Mr. Hellyer, his Honor adjourned the application for a month of allow insolvent a further opportunity of making the xplanation.

regard to exitain property; and, at the request of Mr Heliver, his Honor adjourned the application for a month of allow insolvent a further opportunity of making the explanation.

In the matter of James Dryer. Insolvent was summone to show cause why he should not discharge his debts by monthly instalments. Insolvent was examined by Mr Merriman, for a creditor. He deposed that he was the applicant; he was a scaman; he was discharged from scessel on Saturday; he was on board the Diamantina whe he got the summons; he was on board of her for fivmenths and seven days; he lived on board the steamer a sea, and had the option of doing so whe he to vessel was in port; he had to sleep a seard, he boarded and lodged before his insolvent with Kennedy; he paid £1; an order was made again him for the payment of £2 per month to Kennedy; he had not made one month's payment; about a wesistefore his insolventy be sold a watch and chain for £4 lost this he paid Mrs. Burnes £2, and Mr. Morrises £2 lost; he was out of employment aimon a Saturday; and had lost his situation through having some words with the chief officer. His Honesiad this was a clear case of an insolven wishing to evade a creditor by the machinery of the Court and that the insolvent had better pay his creditors, as hwould not grant a certificate until he had done so. It suggested to Mr. R. M. Forster, who appeared for insolvent, that his client should adopt that course, and he adjourned the decision until the 13th September.

Mr. Dean applied for a certificate of conformity on behalf of William Sweetnam Harrison, Stating that a affidavit had been filled by insolvent, showing how £10 received from the sale of his furniture, was disposed of the him; a portion going for rent, a portion for necessaries and the balance paid to the official assignee. His Honesure health of William Sweetnam Harrison, Stating that a affidavit had been filled by insolvent, showing how £10 received from the asle of his furniture, was disposed of the him; a portion going for rent, a portion

BEFORE Messers. Evans, Helshaw, and Pinhey.

Ten persons were fixed for drunkenness.

Jane Cope, Kate Nelson, and William Maher were fixed

20s. each, and Ann Carry was fixed 40s., for using obscens language.

Edward Watson, 60, and Mary Tyson, 60, were convicted,

ca the proceeding eventual for constable Powtress, of offending against deceny "within view" of King-street, a public place in the city of Sydney, and were sentenced to be imprisoned three months.

Kate Nelson, charged with having wilfully broken a window-sash and eight panes of glass, the property of A.

Wickham, was ordered to pay 40s. damagos, or to be imprisoned fourteen days.

Edward Lewis was found guilty of having assaulted Mary Ann Jones, by striking her in the face, on her refusal to "shont" a second time for him, and was sendenced to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned fourteen days.

Before Captain Scott and Rr. Goldring.

Arthur Storling was a false pretence. Arthur Martin,
in the employ of William Smith, of George-street, draper, deposed that on lasts Saturday the previous Province for which he paids by a cheque for that amount on the Bank of New South Wales; the cheque was banked in the usual course of leadings, but an Renday was returned angual. Edmund

1, 1875.

C. Maybew, ledger-keeper in the Bank of New South Waies deposed that there is no account in that bank in the name of Arthur Sterling. Prisoner decimed to make any statement. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

Before Nesser, Heidet and Smart.

On the summone paper were twenty-five cases, of which five were not proscuted, and in one a warrant was issued for the apprehendom of the non-appearing defendant. David White was summoned by acting sub-inspector Bush to answer "for not laving on the 11th August lawful visible means of support," and pleased course to show. Sergeant Lawfur deposed that about 2 o'clock p.m. on the 11th August he saw the defendant and a number of other persons in the yard of premises situated in Portser-street where a fight was going on, whereby the neighbourhood was disturbed; he then proceeded to enumerate offences for which defendant had at different times been punished, and the character of his associates when out of good. Constable Hadwell gave evidence of a like kind. Befendant was sentenced to be imprisoned five months. Michael Finn appeared to answer a like information; the evidence in support these of being a reiteration of that in the case against White, and received sentence of four months' imprisonment. Robert Hymard pleaded guilty to an information in which he was charged with having impeded an officer of the Railway department in the execution of his duty, whereby he became, liable to a penalty of £20, and was fined 20s. Fops v. Devlin, Harris v. Hogg, and Ryan v. Burnett were undefended cases under the Tennats' Act, in each of which a seven days' warrant was granted. On the prosecution of inspector Mitchelson, John Clune was fined 20s. and William Piper 40s. for having light weights—in each case with the addition of 10s. 6d, professional cases; Mr. Carroll appearing for Mr. Forster. George Hugha was fined 20s. under the Drunkards' Purishment Act. James Dunn was fined 10s. to reasonable Purishment of their respective shops.

After discussion, the motion was negatived on a division of 9 to 4.

intersecting streets near King-street, persons should be compelled to walk their animals over crossings. He thought there was more danger to be apprehended from persons driving at a quick pace over crossings than there would be by driving rapidly round corners of streets, because at the corners of streets people generally kept a look-out. In Melbourne, horses were only driven over crossings at a walking pace, and the time would soon come when we should have to establish a similar regulation.

Alderman Day pointed out that 'if Alderman Lineley's ideas were carried into effect, it would be a saving of time for persons coming from Woolloomooloo down King-street to walk.

Alderman Machnyosu thought that to pass such a bylaw as Alderman Lineley suggrested would be to aggravate instead of lessen the evils complained of.

Alderman Rown should like to have seen the by-law so framed that persons riding or driving down George-atreet or King-street would be compailed to walk their horses over crossings. He was afraid that to pass the by-law as it shood would be to encourage persons to drive richically along the streets.

Alderman Davits supported the by-law as it stood. If Alderman Lineley's proposals were carried into effect, it would prove irritating, and would tend to block up the streets.

Alderman Fowler thought the by-law proposed would be very beneficial; still he should like to have seen it framed as suggested by Alderman Limsley.

Weights will be declared on the Sth of next month, and we have no doubt that in the meantime these will be so adjusted by the handicapper as to give general satisfaction and bring a splendid field of borses to the fore to compete for the big prise.—In connection with the races, some time since Mr. Henry Paylen, secretary to the Spring race merting, applied to the Commissioner for Railways to issue return tacks from Sydney to Goulburn at £1 for first and 12s. for second-class, so as to afford the lowers of horse racing residing in the metropolis an opportunity of witnessing at a moderate cost the equine contests that are arranged to come off in this city on the 27th and 30th September next. This application the Commissioner declared to comey mechanism at a similar reduction, three horses in each loss.

A VILLAINGUS OUTRAGE.—The Ballarat correspondent of the Argus records the following most cowardly outrage, which may possibly result in murder. From what has been communicated, it would seem that on the 23rd instant a Mrs. A. Hart, who keeps a store in Armstrong-street, Soldiers'-shill, bearing some one walking about her house, went to the door to inquire what was wanted, when she was immediately felled to the ground by a blow from what she believes was a hammer-headed whip handle, which struck her on the forehead. The cowardly assailant appears to have bad no other object in view but revenge—although Mrs. Hart cannot conceive why any one should cherich such a spirit agrainst her—as the moment he struck her he ran off, and she cannot identify him. Some of the neighbours attended to Mrs. Hart's requirements, but crystyleds has seet in, and her condition is said for be rather precarious. The police are engaged trying to discover the perpetrator of the outrage.

The Bishop of Ballarat.—A ten, and after-pactures in crayons, by Mr. R. R. Ewen, are very valuable.

DOCTOR WANTED.—The Tenterfield Star has the following lament:—Our community is still without a son of Galen, and were it not for the exercise of some solf-sacrifice and humano motives on the part of a proprietor of a dispensary in our midst, we should fare very baddy, and in many instances, to our knowledge, which would have proved fatal have, by the kindly intervention of the gentleman alluded to, been averted from serious consequences. The increasing population and extension of this town makes it a serious matter to be left at the mercy of a "rade stream" of calamities without professional assistance to counteract their evil effects somewhat. Also, it must not be forgotten that, however competent and anxious our local chemist is to do all in his power to afford the benefit of his time and experience to the amelioration of the afflicted, there are certain bounds which he may not overstep. The medical profession are very jealous of their prerogative, and are not slack to evince displeasure if any presume to encreach upon their province, however much circumstances should justify such a course. We think, and not upon unfounded observation, that a resident physician in the lown would be a boon to the district, and the benefit accruing to the community would not, we are prestly cortain, be uncompensatory in its results to any medical gentleman taking up his abode with us to practice his profession.

Hoccussing.—A case of alleged "hoccussing" satory in its results to any medical gentleman taking up his abode with us to practise his profession.

Hocussing.—A case of alleged "hocussing" came under the notice of the City Bench, Melbourne, on the 20th (eavy the 4rgss). Alice Ballard, alias Burnett and Elizabeth Ah Kay, were charged with stealing £26 from Stephen Mitchel, a labourer, living in Polystechnic-lane. Evidence was given that on the 18th instant Mitchel sold a horse and dray for £28 10s., and on the following day, after having imbibed a good deal of run, went into the house of the prisoner Ballard, next door to his own house. Both prisoners were there. He ordered in some beer, and, after drinking it, became insensible. Next day he found hinsself in his own house minus £26 odd, which he had in his pocket when he went into Ballard's house. Alice Costello, a widow, living with Mitchel since the 19th instant and for two days before that working in Ballard's house, said that she saw a roll of hotos drop out of Mitchel speckst. Elizabeth Ah Kay picked up to some white powder in a glass, poured beer on the top of it, and handed the ginss to Mitchel, who a minute or two after drinking the beer, staggered about and became insensible. The woman Ballard afterwards said to the witness, "Alice, if you say anything of what you saw, and I get 'pinched,' I will halfe you when I come out." By "pinched" she meant arrested. The prisoners were committed for trial.

PRESS TELEGRAMS.—The Argus of the 27th says:—Some of our country contemporaries seem at a loss how to deal with the special telegram of European news which is now received by the Argus on the arrival of the mail-steamer at Glendge. In reply to private letters on the subject, we desire to atate that our friends in the country are welcome to copy all or as much of our special telegrams as they think proper. We claim, of course, that the recent decision of Mr. Justice Molesworft gives us copyright in the special telegrams from Adelaide as well as in the telegrams of the Anstralian Associated Press, but, as regards reproduction in the country press, we make a distinction between them. We are compelled to protect the telegrams of the Associated Press in the interests of the proprietors of those journals who pay for the right of publication; them, but as regards our special telegrams we are content with the priority of publication, and shall be glad to see our country contemporaries make use of them. All we sak for is an acknowledgment of the source from which they are garrived. PRESS TELEGRAMS.—The Argus of the 27th

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1875.

THE Society for the Prevention of Cruelty 6 Animals may be doing what is considered a sentimental and what is sometimes an unpopular work, but the work of this society is one which must comment itself to humane men in this and in every community. Some of our readers may po-ibly lock for a more definite statement of the society's methods and for a fuller account its actual work during the past year, that was given in the secretary's report on Monday night. But we agree with those who maintain that if the results of this society's operations are not found in the pages of the repor ations are not tound in the pages of the repositive they are found in the streets of the city, and that a society like the one referred to has its value not only in the good it actually does, but also in the evils it prevents. It is quite possibly that the cruelties alleged to be inflicted on an inule are sometimes exaggranted. It is animals are sometimes exaggerated. It is also possible that now and then the zeal of enthusiastic friends of the dumb animals may have been in advance of their discretion, but which men are too much in the habit of sity both for vigilant philanthropy and for Both the philanthropy and the legislation Both the philantinopy and the legislation must of course be governed not merely by the evil complained of, but by the special furms of the evil that may exist in any particular country. We quite agree with the chairman of the meeting, the night before last, that some further legislation in regard to

ment, and the passion for brutal sport, hav created in Europe and America an indiffer-ence to animal suffering which is both un-natural and borrible. The practice of making surgical experiments on living animals appears to be a common practice even in the physiological schools of America; and both professional and public feeling in regard to experimenting on living animals has been so blunted and brutalized that the means used are boldly vindicated on the grounds of the scientific ends to be gained. An English periodical recently illustrated the tortures which are inflicted on animals for scientific purposes are inflicted on animals for scientific purposes by informing us that experiments are made on living frogs, birds, and mammals of all kinds. The spinal marrow of the animal is laid bare in order to cut the posterior groups of nerves. The violent struggles of the animal during the operation, the bleeding which during the operation, the bleeding which accompanies it, and the involuntary contusions of the exposed part, are results which may be easily imagined. An English physiologist is said to have been present a short time since at a lecture, in the course of which demonstrations were made on living dogs. When the unfortunate creatures cried and meaned under the operation, many of the students actually mimicked their cries in derision. Lady Burdert-Course has recently derision. Lady BURDETT-COUTTS has recently directed the attention of the English public to the wholesale destruction of birds, not for the wholesale destruction of birds, not for the purposes of scientific experiment, but of feminine ornament. We are told that one Parisian milliner alone has forty thousand humning birds consigned to her every season; and that at a recent ball "one lady's costume was literally powdered over with hundreds of these exquisite birds; while another appeared in a dress composed entirely of the skins of canary birds; and another in a robe which was, to use a technical phrase, quilted with the tiny blue feathers of wing

We have, happily, few of the cruelties of vivisection to protest or to legislate against in the Australian colonies. But the evil of inflicting agony on animals as an outlet for human passion, or as a means of human -port, is one of the commonest, as it is one of the meanest and cruellest, in the world The evil, if none the less cruel, is certainly far less common than it once was. of the most hopeful signs of the improvement of men is found in the kindlier interest which is felt towards the brute creation. A system of butchery towards animals such as that which one formed the chief amusement of men and women, the speciacle of a Domitian or a Spinoza finding his favourite pastime in corturing flies, would create heartier reprobation now than it did in former times. It is scarcely fifty years ago since no less a statesman than Sir ROBERT PREI himself entered his strongest avent against a prohibition of bull-baiting But among ourselves there are still far to frequently instances of cruelty to animals, which should not only move the heart of philanthropy, but which should mise the strong arm of the law. And it is the occurrence of evils of this sort that justifies the existence of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and which echoes the appeals it urges for popular sympathy and

The most evident, if not the str ground for public sympathy with this society is the one that was suggested by the report the other night in connection with alleged brutality practised towards stock being con veyed to the Sydney markets. Injur-done to stock intended for food must of cours be an injury to the food itself. And this is but one of the smallest illustrations of the general truth that the cruelty done by men to animals has a reflex influence which must return from the animals to the men themselves. The kindest owners and drivers of horses are the owners and drivers whom horses best serve. And besides this, animals which supply food, as well as animals which A recent cartoon in English Punch represents little girl shedding bitter tears at the sight f her little brother mutilating a fly. nity it was found that the sorrow of the girl was not on account of the fly, but on account of the fact that the privilege of mutiating the fly fell into the hands of her little brother rather than into her own hands. The mutilation of a fly may be in itself a small matter, but the urchin who amuses his boyand as a tormentor of flies, may live to amust his manhood as a termenter of men. In dealing with cruelty to animals, therefore, we is but dealing with larger evils of which

It has been suggested that the society which vists to prevent ills to animals should have an element in it to prevent some of the ills that one to human beings; in other words, that the society which exists to prevent cruelty to animals might also do some of the Humane Societies. The suggestion is an important and a practical one. It must be contessed that the troubles of men are often nester than the troubles of beasts, and that man's inhumanity to animals, however great sometimes smaller than man's inhumanity to men and women. It has now and then animal-fancying world, and that people are sometimes more concerned about cruelmust of course be governed not merely by the circle complained of, but by the special forms of the evil that may exist in any particular country. We quite agree with the chairman of the meeting, the night before last, that some further legislation in regard to cruelty to animals is required in this colory. The English and American legislation quotest by Sir Alegen Stephen Stephen Stephen species of cruelty to grapple with that species of cruelty to grapple with that the properties of the free-traders, by whom protection has since been administered. In the tenders of the free-traders, by whom protection has since been administered. We remarked a few days ago upon the soundness of the principle laid down by the ACTING-GOVERNOR of Victoria that dissolutions should not be made penal. The application of that principle has caused a change of Ministry, and in virtue of it Mr. Graham Herry is at the head of the Government. Mr. Byerry, however, seems disposed either to pass it by now that it has served his purpose, or to deny that it has any bearing upon the new situation. At a meeting at Ballarat, one of his colleagues having spoken in anticipation of factious opposition from the Assembly, he expressed his own belief that the Assembly would not dare to offer any. What influence could interfere but the fear of punishment? And what punishment could the Assembly fear but that of dissolution? Mr. Berry clearly does not appreciate the ions should not be made penal. The appli-Mr. BERRY clearly does not appreciate the fine sense of constitutional propriety by which the ACTING-GOVERNOR was guided. which the ACTING-GOVERNOR was guided.
But it is not only the Assembly that is threatened—the Council's turn comes next; and should obstruction be offered by that body, then a contest will begin such as the colony has never before witnessed. Thus the Assembly is not to dare to oppose Mr. Beany for reasons which, though unnamed, are too obvious to be mis-taken; and the Council is to concur with the obedient Assembly, or prepare to meet the consequences. Constitutional reform, as well as an appeal to the country, is in the eyes of the new Ministry a penal measure. Neither branch of the Legislature is to act upon its own views of right and wrong; but both Houses are virtually will be applied to the policies and action by told to regulate their opinions and action by the fear of what may follow Ministerial displeasure. The early promises of the crisis are vertainly not encouraging.

We discussed at some length the chief features of Mr. Service's Budget speech. Mr. Benry has not yet reached the same position, and all we have before us is the declaration of intention which has made by the various members of the new Ministry upon the hustings. In one sense the policy of the new men is in conflict with that of the old. In another, it may be said to have been founded upon it : but where the new policy has been so founded upon the old, the resemblance is affected by the introduction of a new element, and that may be termed political violence. Though there are charges of past extrava-

the new Ministry takes the Estimates of the old one and admits the necessity of providing for a deficit of £200,000. Mr. SERVER proposed to take advantage of the necessity for raising additional revenue to readjust raising additional revenue to readjust generally the incidence of taxation, and, setting out with the principle that though the poorer classes do not pay too much, the richer do not pay enough, he looked to the wealthier classes chiefly for the increase.

Mr. Berner acts upon the same principle, but were a fer simple, also better. but upon a far simpler plan. Instead of rearranging the tariff, reducing some duties, abolishing others, and establishing new land and property taxes as parts of a general scheme, under which the pressure, though falling chiefly upon the wealthier classes, would have been distributed over a comparatively wide surface,—the new idea is to make the few who happen to be large landowners bear the whole burden. The whole of the deficiency is to be made up by a land tax. Public attention is not to be distracted by a score or two of taxes. It is to be concentrated upon the one only. The largest landowners are to be one only. The largest anadwhers are to be taken first; the next largest will follow; the descending process will be continued until the deficiency is removed, and there is sufficient surplus to work with, and all below will be exempt. At some future day, when a still larger revenue is required, these same large landowners will have to submit to another supply food, as well as animals which are directly consumed as food, give back with compound interest in the shape of the germs of disease every item of cruelty inflicted upon them. There is a graver consideration than even this in the fact that cruelty to animals is a public evil, the symptoms of which may be small but the consequences of which cannot fail to be serious in one shape or another. To some persons there is something that is almost undicrous in the idea of imprisonment for consting a rat or for wantonly breaking the legs of a goat. But cruelty whether perpetuated against a rat or a goat, or against a man or a woman. And it is one of the soundest principles of social and of legislative procedure that animals are as truly entitled to outlike protection as human beings themselves.

A recent carroon in English Panch represents principle is the same, namely, to get all that is wanted from a single class, and to confine the operation within as narrow limits as possible. It is needless to say that this idea realized would be clearly class legislation. That is not the only point to be noticed. To propose such a plan is to appeal to obesite tests, and prejudices, and passions. It is an overt bid for the support of the House of Want against the House of Have. It is a bait thrown to the masses—and to the most selfish and least intelligent amongst them—to uphold the Brany Government in any contest it may have with an Assembly that may possibly dare to be recalcitrant, or with the Council as in a special sense the representative and protector of the rights of property in the Legislature. Mr. SERVICE made his scheme complicated partly in order to spread taxation over a broad surface, and partly in order to relax somewhat the protective policy of the colony. Mr. BERRY is determined not only to squeeze the money he wants from a comparatively few people, but also to uphold and enforce protection more rigidly than ever, even at the cost of revenue, and with the purpose of falling still more heavily upon the large land-owners, should this loss have to be made owners, should this loss have to be made good by taxation. According to Mr. Branx, it was his protective tariff that restored the finances of the colony to a flourishing position; the extravagant expenditure of the free-traders, by whom protection has since been administered.

these colonies, and left none without a largely increased spending ps wer amongst the people, and, as a consequence, an increased yield from every sources of revenue. Victoria gained amongst the rest, and her protective tailf became at once a productive one. But after the lapse of years its exhaustive effects are beginning to be felt, in spite of the general prosperity. People are now beginning to beginning to be felt, in spite of the general prosperity. People are now beginning to appreciate, not its beneficial influence, as Mr. Bisnav says, but its beneficial influence. The great mining interest, that has not been protected, has declined, not perhaps solely through the affects of protection, but partly from that cause. The enhanced cost of living has diminished the working man's power to purchase the luxuries if not the necessities of life. And the adult male populatics has ife. And the adult male population has suffered an actual, and not merely relative, decrease, because the attractions of life elsedecrease, because the attractions of life else-where have not been balanced by induce-ments to stay at home. Mr. SERVICE was perhaps too sanguine in estimating the strength of the reaction against protection which these influences have produced; but Mr. BERRY is reading the signs of the times through the wrong end of the telescope. The new Minister naturally looks for through the wrong end of the telescope.

The new Ministry naturally looks for a contest with the Upper House, and the Upper House is warned that if it will not pass the land-tax bill and one or two other test measures, its power of obstruction shall be taken away by constitutional reform. This time, however, there is to be no such thing as a resort to the weak measures adopted by the McCulloch Ministry. The Berry Ministry has a wholesome horror of confessions of judgment and prolonged dead-locks. The difficulty is to be conquered by confessions of judgment and prolonged dead-locks. The difficulty is to be conquered by some far more summary process; but what that is to be is not indicated. The "Con-stitutional reform" is apparently to be a measure leaving the Council power only once to reject a bill passed by the Assembly, or to deprive the Council of power to reject a bill passed by the Assembly after an appeal to the people. Yet how the Council is to be made to assent to a reform of that description is not apparent. o a reform of that description is not apparent. Surely the limits of coercion were reached under the M'Culloch Ministry; and what further forces Mr. BERRY may have in reserve is not readily conceivable. He thinks the present time a peculiarly favourable one to compel the Council to submit to pressure. But unless we greatly misapprehend the tendency of his words and action, the very opposite result should be looked for. If there could be any time, and any circumstances specially adapted to stiffen the resolution of the Council, and to dictate to that House a policy of unyielding resistance, it is when the arrowed to place no obstacle in the way of an attack upon property—an attack upon those interests which are peculiarly under its

THE work of Australian exploration, for which New South Wales and Victoria were formerly distinguished, appears now to have fallen into the hands of South Australia. To connect Adelaide with Port Darwin by a telegraph line across the whole continent was an enterprise of which a colony with only 180,000 inhabitants might well be proud. Not content with that, how-ver, they are now ambitious of exploring the regions to the north and west which no traveller has yet traversed. A glance at the most recent maps will show that while settlement in the eastern colonies has been pushed backwards almost up to the dividing line, central and Western Australia, from the head of the Great Bight to the Straits and the Indian Ocean, remains a true "terva Australia incognita." Into this region Mr. Enwar Gilles has just plunged, intending to travel as nearly as possible along the 3rth parallel of latitude up to the settlement of Western Australia. His career will be watched with some interest by all the colonies, and with no little anxiety by his friends. His predecessor, Colonel Warron, narrowly escaped the fate of so many previous explorers, and from the same cause, the fatal want of water. He has recontly published his travels under the title "Across Western Australia," a work which will win more admiration for the Colonel's indomitable courage and perseverance, than for the country through which he passed. But if the following passage

Western Australia," a work which will win more admiration for the Colonel's indomitable courage and perseverance, than for the country through which he peased. But if the following passage be a specimen of his treatment of the aborigines, we cannot say as much for his humanity.

"Not far from the camp a howling hideous hag was captured, and wasned by the former escape, we ascured this old wisch by tying her thumbe behind her back, and haltering her by the neckto a tree. She kept up a frightful howling all night, during which time we had to watch her by murns, or she would have got away also. I doubt whether there is any way of securing these creatures, if you take your eyes off them for ten minutes. What, not even with their thumbe tied behind them, and a halter round their necks tied to a tree! Not even King Jamas's witch-inders went much beyond this in their treatment of the "old hage" of their day. Under Colosel Wareusaron's treatment, the poor woman howing was quite natural, and it is not to be wondered at that such gentle persuasions failed to induce her to reveal the place where the nature store of st that such gentle persuasions failed to induce her to reveal the place where the native store of precious water was concealed. Such expressions as "hideous old hag," "old witch," "these creatures," all to be found in this shore extract, are inflicient evidence that the Colone's mission was no philanthropic one to these pitiable aborigine. If any future traveller should fall into the hands of this very tribe, is it likely that the story of the white man's halter and new patent thumb-screws will be forgotten!

UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.—A meeting of graduates in the Sydney University was held yesterday evening, at the Free Public Library, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for election to the Senate of the University. Mr. W. C. Windoyer was voted into the chair. The chairman explained that the reason he had inserted the advertisement donvenings the meeting was that there was a probability of an early vacancy occurring in the Senate. Mr. Mer-wether, who had how both in England, and who had had leave of absence, was self-not be differly to return to the coloner, and therefore it was very possible that the Senate would shortly declaire the best of that gentleman to be vicent, at the beautiful of the self-not s

THE PROPOSED BRIDGES OVER THE PARRAMAYYA RIVER.—Yesen Mr. Farnell, Mr. John Blaxland, Mr. Terry, and M. Unaks waited upon the Ministe for Works respecting the proposed bridges across the Parramatia River. Havang accertained that the amount voted by Parliament was not sufficient to build the two bridges required, they were desirous that the work of constructing over of the bridges might be commenced, and they urged upon Mr. Lackey the importance of calling for tenders forthwith. They also painted out the creat inconvenience which the inhabitants of the localities on the Parramatia liver suffered from the want of a bridge, and referred to the fact that the proceeds of the sale of the Field of Mays. Common would meet the cost of the work. Mr. Lackey said that since the money had passed a resulttion, moved by Mr. W. Forster, affirming that the bridges should be until of sufficient strength to carry a railway; and that had of course greatly increased the estimate. He was unable to say that the money voted for the two bridges should be applied to the erection of one only; but the would sulmit the question for the consideration of his colleagues with an delay, and he should be glad if there were no insuperable objection to the course recommended.

The Ture.—At a meeting of Tattersall's Club last evening a considerable amount of wagering took place upon coming events. The Valetta colt was backed for the Derby at 2 to 1, and Valentia and Richmond at 5 and 6 to 1 respectively. Kingaborough's gallop vesserday morning had the effect of shortening his price to 3 to 1 for the Metropolatas, and Calunny was not in request at 6 to 1; while 10 to 1 was freely accepted about Kingdaber and Stirling, and the others were at fancy prices. The following are the latest scratchings:—Postboy and Sir Roger for the Hurdle Bace; Calumny, Hook, Athos, and Stirling for the Hurdle Bace; Calumny, Hook, Athos, and Stirling for the Hurdle Bace; The Star and Rose d'Amour for the Metropolitan Sakes.

PEDIGREE of DANNYMAN,

PEDIGREE of DANNYMAN, a roan bull, calved March 2, 1869, beed by Mr. W. Derham; Palmer's Green, Southgate, Middlesex. Bismark, 25637 n, Colleen Bawn, by Lord Red Rose, 22205 (B. Booth)

Dum, Colleem Bawn, by Lord Red Rose, 22205 (B. Booth)
2nd dams, Carlina, by Valasco, 15443 (R. Booth)
3nd dams, Charlotte, by Royal Buck, 10750 (R. Booth)
4th dam, Dores, by Leonard, 4210 (R. Booth)
5th dam, Dores, by Leonard, 4210 (R. Booth)
6th dam, Dorothy, by Roland, 2556 (J. Colling)
6th dam, —, by Priam, 2552 (R. Booth)
Bismark's pedigree will be found at page 25 of the 18th volume of the Herd-book.
Colleen Bawn is wirtually of pure Booth blood, her size by Lord Red Rose, by Sir Samuel, from Red Rose, the dam of Mr. Booth's famous prize Queen Cowe.
Valueco was sire of Commander-in-Chief.
Royal Bayk was a sou of Buckingham and Leonard of Valuece was sire of Commander-in-Chief.

Royal Buck was a son of Buckingham and Leonard of the Strawberry line; was the first bull hired by Mr. Toor.

Holya Buck was a son of Duckingdan and Leonard of the Strawberry line; was the first bull hired by Mr. Toor, of Aylesbury.

Roland was a noted bull of the old Rachel line.

Priam was the sire of the celebrated twin cows Neckless and Bracelet. (Roland and Priam both occur in the pedigree of Mr. Bruere's noted Vesper bulls—Primrose, by Roland, being the dam of Vesper).

Charlette was bred at Kirby, Flutham, and bought by Mr. Carr. She bred Mr. Todd's prise bull Richard (15297).

By a careful analysis of Bismark's pedigree at the 25th page of the 18th volume of the Herd-book, it fwill be found that his blood is composed of Booth's and Bate's blood, the former predominating. Colleen Bawn does net, I think, appear in the 18th and 18th volumes of the Herd-book; but her dam Carlina will be found as one of her progeny. Colleen Bawn is a good roan cow, and is now in the herd of Mr. Aylmer, one of the beat judges in England.

Mrs. FANNY STENHOUSE, (Of Salt Lake City), Author of "A Lady" Life among the Mon Tell it All," has much pleasure to announce that she will deliver a GRAPHIC LECTURE

INNER OR FAMILY LIFE THR MORMONS, On SATURDAY EVENING, September 4th, 1875, at the above Hall.

From the Rev. C. P. Lyford, Missionary at Provo City, Utah.

From the Rev. C. P. Lyford, Missionary at Provo City,

"To the Clergy of the United States.

"Brethren,—It has been and now is the policy of the Mormon hierarchy to suborn and control, so far as possible, every public speaker and writer that visits Utah. Then hasty visitors to Salt Lake are easily misled, and have but few opportunities for ascertaining the facts concerning Mormonism and its results. It is only from residents of the territory who know and are disposed to tell the whole truth that the true state of affairs here can be known. Probably no person living is better able to give a thorough expose of the whole Mormon system than Mrs. Stenhouse. From experience and observation, and from long association as the wife of one of the most prominent and brightest 'lights' of Mormonism, with all gradeof Mormon society, she has gained such a knowledge of the concentration of all abonimations' as only such a woman can gain. I am convinced that the people outside of Utah know nothing of Mormonism, and it is high time that all the facts concerning this vile system which to-day is crushing and degrading, a hundred thousand people in the very heart of our nation,
should be thought to light. Mrs. Sheabours in contlint.
